Some things to remember when reading poetry

1. Read the syntax literally. What the words say literally in normal sentences is only a starting point, but it is the place to start. Not all poems use normal prose syntax, but most of them do, and you can save yourself embarrassment by paraphrasing accurately (that is, rephrasing what the poem literally says, in plain prose) and not simply free-associating from an isolated word or phrase.

2. Articulate for yourself what the title, subject, and situation make you expect. Poets often use false leads and try to surprise you by doing shocking things, but defining expectation lets you be conscious of where you are when you begin.

3. Identify the poem’s situation. What is said is often conditioned by where it is said and by whom. Identifying the speaker and his or her place in the situation puts what he or she says in perspective.

4. Take a poem on its own terms. Adjust to the poem; don’t make the poem adjust to you. Be prepared to hear things you do not want to hear. Not all poems are about your ideas, nor will they always present emotions you want to feel. But be tolerant and listen to the poem’s ideas, not only to your desire to revise them for yourself.

5. Look up anything you don’t understand: an unfamiliar word (or an ordinary word used in an unfamiliar way), a place a person, a myth, an idea—anything the poem uses. When you can’t find what you need or don’t know where to look, ask for help.

6. Remember that poems exist in time, and times change. Not only have the meanings of words changed, but whole ways of looking at the universe have varied in different ages. Consciousness of time works two ways: your knowledge of history provides a context for reading the poem, and the poem’s use of a word or idea may modify your notion of a particular age.

7. Find out what is implied by the traditions behind the poem. Verse forms, poetic kinds, and metrical patterns all have a frame of reference, traditions of the way they are usually used and for what. For example, the anapest (two unstressed syllables followed by a stressed one, as in the word Tennessee) is usually used for comic poems, and when poets use it “straight” they are aware of their “departure” and are probably making a point by doing it.

8. Be willing to be surprised. Things often happen in poems that turn them around. A poem may seem to suggest one thing at first, then persuade you of its opposite, or at least of a significant qualification or variation.

9. Assume there is a reason for everything. Poets do make mistakes, but in poems that show some degree of verbal control it is usually safest to assume that the poet chose each word carefully; if the choice seems peculiar to us, it is often we who are missing something. Try to account for everything in a poem and see what kind of sense you can make of it. Poets make choices; try to figure out a coherent pattern that explains the text as it stands.

10. Discuss. Discussion usually results in clarification and keeps you from being too dependent on personal biases and preoccupations that sometimes mislead even the best readers. Talking a poem over with someone else (especially someone very different) can expand your perspective.

Some things to remember when analyzing poetry

1. Answer the prompt. Remember: AP means Answer the Prompt
2. Mark the poem and make a plan.
3. The poet is not the speaker; the poet is not the speaker; the poet is not the speaker. The poet uses literary devices and the speaker speaks.
4. Write in literary present tense.
5. One very useful approach is to begin by identifying three key elements of the poem: the speaker, his/her subject, and the dramatic situation.
6. Make sure your topic sentences are explicit about your structural choices. Frost opens the poem (lines 1-14)... or Frost’s first two stanzas...
7. Almost every poem has a series of natural divisions. Look for transitions in theme, subject matter, tone, or chronology and use those for dividing the essay.
8. You are proving a thesis in a poetry explication. Don’t forget to write your paper with the central thesis in mind.
9. As you read, look for unusual, distinct or clever phrasing of words or phrases. If a poet violates an expectation of language or presents an idea in an entirely new way, there is likely a reason that you can explore.
10. Look for powerful phrases that have an impact, because of meaning or sound quality. Look for metaphor, symbolism, sound devices.
11. Identify “cool” ideas that you can write about. In other words, if a poem references a historical event or philosophical ideal that you are familiar with, you certainly want to write about it.
12. Don’t fixate on the things that you don’t know; focus on the things that you do. In a poetry explication where you are only given ten minutes to read a poem, there is no way that you can expect to get everything. Emphasize your strengths and focus on those.
13. Weave in nuggets from the text of the poem(s). Don’t use full quotations, but brief critical nuggets from the text.
14. Weave in the use of poetic devices; don’t force them in. You want to demonstrate knowledge of the devices and their application, but they are tools, not the focal point of your writing.
15. Don’t write excessively about sound devices, meter, and rhythm unless you a) have little else to write about or b) are very good at it. They can be really powerful tools for analysis, but are often over-used and trite observations.
16. Make sure that you do more than identify particular devices and techniques. Readers of the essays expect analysis of how the devices function in the piece.

Organizational Structures: Best: Natural divisions of the poem—ideas, stanzas, themes. The best papers follow the chronological order of the poem. This ensures that you cover the essay from top to bottom and do not miss any important literary concepts in the piece. This technique also makes your essay easier for the AP readers to read and score.

Remember, the essay is not about the literary techniques or an interpretation of the poem. The essay should be an analysis of why the poem is effective in portraying a theme. Every sentence that you write about the poem should be used to convince the reader that the author is working toward a particular idea.

Only if you must: Literary Devices

Remember your time limit: Make decisions accordingly

MC Strategies

For this first section of the AP Literature exam, you are allotted 1 hour to answer between 45 and 55 objective questions on five to seven prose and poetry selections. The prose passages may come from works of fiction or drama. You can expect the poems to be complete and from different time periods and of different styles and forms. In other words, you will not find two Shakespearean sonnets on the same exam. These are not easy readings. They are representative of the college-level work you have been doing throughout the year. You will be expected to

• Follow sophisticated syntax
• Respond to diction
• Be comfortable with upper-level vocabulary
• Be familiar with literary terminology
• Make inferences
• Be sensitive to irony and tone
• Recognize components of style

The multiple choice questions are designed to assess your understanding of

- The meaning of the selection
- Your ability to draw inferences
- Your ability to see implications
- How a writer develops ideas

Therefore, the questions will be factual, technical, analytical, and inferential

First: Quickly survey ALL of the reading passages and count the number of questions attached to each one. Start with the passage that you feel you might understand the best AND has a significant number of questions attached to it. After you have worked through that passage, attack the passage that is your second favorite, and so on. This means that you might complete the last passage first if you think that is your best passage, while leaving the first passage for last (because you feel it is your weakest).

Second: Read the questions stems (but not the answers) for the passage you will do first. (This works for some, not all.)

Third: Actively read the passage once (AVOID rereading at this time) with pencil in hand (write on the booklet—interact with the test) to mark things like:

- The main point of the passage
- Details, including punctuation
- Significant shifts in tone or subject
- Key verbal markers (But, although, for example, now, thus, first)
- Telling supporting examples
- Examples of literary devices, tone, speaker, style, theme
- Paraphrase as you read (each paragraph and the whole passage)
- Ask yourself, “What is this about?”
- Read actively. Keep your pencil engaged and the mind in focus.
- Do NOT skip around from passage to passage. Answer all of the questions for a passage before moving to the next one.

Fourth: Aggressively attack the questions. Remember that questions do NOT become more difficult as they progress. Read the questions CAREFULLY! Many wrong answers stem from misreading the question; know what is being asked. Accuracy and efficiency count. Mark out obviously wrong answers and eliminate down to the BEST answer. Since this is a skill-based test: there is little chance that you will have seen the passages before, but the questions the test asks focus on higher-level reading skills.

Fifth: Do not linger, obsess, or dither over any one question. You should move at a brisk, but comfortable pace throughout the questions.

Sixth: With approximately 90 seconds left to go in this one-hour section, pick a letter and bubble in any remaining answers. You should complete the test as thoughtfully as possible for 58-59 minutes and then fill in any remaining empty bubbles in the last 90 seconds.
Helpful Reminder: Until your brain is warm and focused, you will have a tendency to miss questions. So, be very careful with your first few questions of the test and your first couple of questions on a new passage.

Reminder Two: Students tend to lose focus and confidence during this section of the test. As a result, students will miss a series of questions because of lost concentration and internal doubts. This is not an easy test. Try to get as many answers right as possible and minimize the misses.

II. Practice
A. Given in class: A Poem from a previous AP Exam
   1. Read poem aloud
   2. Highlight the following:
      a. Periods – Pink
      b. Semi-Colons – Orange
      c. Commas – Yellow
      d. Unknown Vocab. - Green
   3. Identify and define troublesome vocabulary
   4. Paraphrase literal content of poem – “translate” the poem into your own words
   5. Respond to MC questions
   6. Whole class reviews MC responses

B. Given for “Homework”:
   1. Read poem aloud
   2. Highlight the following:
      a. Periods – Pink
      b. Semi-Colons – Orange
      c. Commas – Yellow
      d. Unknown Vocab. - Green
   2. Identify and define troublesome vocabulary
   4. Paraphrase literal content of poem – “translate” the poem into your own words

C. In Class
   1. Whole class discusses vocabulary and paraphrase
   2. Students respond to MC questions
   3. Small groups of students compare answers and reach consensus response
   4. Assess formatively by hand count for each response
   5. Students propose Essay questions which would assess understanding of the poem.

III. Assessment
A. Given: a new poem from a released AP Exam
B. Students respond to MC questions
C. Students respond to an Essay question on this same poem.
Beasts (from Things of this World)

by Richard Wilbur

Beasts in their major freedom
Slumber in peace tonight. The gull on his ledge Dreams in the guts of himself the moon-plucked waves below;
And the sunfish leans on a stone, slept
By the lyric water.

5

In which the spotless feet
Of deer make dulcet splashes, and to which The ripped mouse, safe in the owl’s talon, cries
Concordance. Here there is no such harm
And no such darkness.

10

As the self-same moon observes
Where, warped in window-glass, it sponsors now
The werewolf’s painful change. Turning his head away
On the sweaty bolster, he tries to remember
The mood of manhood.

But lies at last, as always Letting it happen, the fierce fur soft to his face,
Hearing with sharper ears the wind’s exciting minors,
The leaves’ panic, and the degradation
Of the heavy streams.

20

Meantime, at high windows
Far from thicket and pad-fall, suitors of excellence
Sigh and turn from their work to construe again the painful
Beauty of heaven, the lucid moon,
And the risen hunter,

25

Making such dreams for men
As told will break their hearts as always, bringing Monsters into the city, crows on the public statues,
Navies fed to the fish in the dark Unbridled waters.

Sonnet 130
by William Shakespeare

My mistress' eyes are nothing like the sun;
Coral is far more red than her lips' red;
If snow be white, why then her breasts are dun;
If hairs be wires, black wires grow on her head.
I have seen roses damask’d, red and white, 5
But no such roses see I in her cheeks;
And in some perfumes is there more delight
Than in the breath that from my mistress reeks.
I love to hear her speak, yet well I know
That music hath a far more pleasing sound; 10
I grant I never saw a goddess go;
My mistress, when she walks, treads on the ground.
And yet, by heaven, I think my love as rare
As any she belied with false compare.

DIRECTIONS: Respond to the following statements and/or questions with the BEST answer among those given.

1. Shakespeare’s sonnet 130 is a (an)
   a. satire on the deficiencies of the speaker’s mistress
   b. belittling of a loved one for the amusement of friends
   c. playful expression of faults to irritate the lady

   b. I love to hear her speak.
   c. There are no roses on her cheeks.
   d. She treads the ground.
   e. Music has a more pleasing sound than her voice.

5. By “false compare” the speaker states that
   a. the conventional praise of mistresses by poets are romantic lies
   b. to win love, one must compare the charms of mistresses with the beauties in nature
   c. love poetry must abound in hyperbole
   d. the women whom men love must be worshipped as goddesses
   e. loves must be privileged to distort truth

6. The speaker in Shakespeare’s sonnet
   a. is a complainer
   b. is an arrogant and egotistic lover
   c. raises the reader’s suspicions about his feelings and then tells honestly how he feels
   d. envies the verbal dexterity of his fellow poets
   e. engages in a poetic exercise for fun

7. The true intent of the speaker in the sonnet is revealed most by
   a. the outrageousness of his metaphors
   b. the rare words of praise that creep into his statement
   c. his imaginative conceits
   d. his sense of fun
   e. the contrast between the first twelve lines and the last two

8. The reader of the sonnet must know that the criticism of the mistress is indeed a form of praise because
   a. the progress of fault-finding leads to the wrong conclusion
   b. the fault-finding is imaginative and humorous
   c. there are hidden romantic nuances in the judgments
   d. the sequence of fault-finding eases in lines 9-12
   e. there are paradoxical hints in the metaphors

9. All of the following are metaphors EXCEPT
   a. Her eyes are not the sun.
   b. The hairs on her head are black ones.
   c. No roses are her cheeks.
   d. Music has a more pleasing sound than her voice.

    a. praise of a mistress
    b. finding the blemishes in a loved one
    c. a lover’s compromise with reality
    d. mockery of a convention in love poetry
    e. ambiguity of intention

11. Love poetry of the age frequently contains the “Petrarchan ideal,” that is, the beautiful, blond, blue-eyed goddess all men desire. Shakespeare implies that this “ideal” is
    a. more to be desired than his mistress
    b. less to be desired than his mistress
    c. foolish to contemplate
    d. merely pleasant foolery
    e. the impossible dream of every man
12. The tone of the sonnet is
   a. happy
   b. sad
   c. satirical
   d. pessimistic
   e. mischievous

   e. a philandering mate

14. A device in which one uses unusual, exaggerated comparisons is a(an)
   a. allegory
   b. conceit
   c. metaphor
   d. apostrophe
   e. elegy

15. The speaker’s mistress, based on his own description, can best be described as
   a. beautiful
   b. ugly
   c. ordinary
   d. intellectual
   e. unfaithful (false)

16. The assumption in line 12 is that other women
   a. do not walk
   b. walk, but very slowly
   c. float above the ground
   d. walk on the ground
   e. are carried when they need to go somewhere

17. Sonnets invariably ask a question, present a proposal, present a puzzle, make a statement in the first eight or twelve lines; the proposal here is
   a. women can never be understood
   b. even though different, my woman is as beautiful as any other
   c. even though she is ugly, I still love her
   d. I really wish she had straight blond hair and blue eyes.
   e. Her eyes, lips, skin are not the best of her.

18. The poetic device in line 1 is a(an)
   a. simile
   b. metaphor
   c. synecdoche
   d. apostrophe
   e. metonymy
Questions 1-14 refer to the following poem.

Church Monuments

While that my soul repairs to her devotion,
Here I entomb my flesh, that it betimes*
May take acquaintance of this heap of dust,
To which the blast of Death’s incessant motion,
Fed with the exhalation of our crimes, (5)
Drives all at last. Therefore I gladly trust
My body to this school, that it may learn
To spell his elements, and find his birth
Written in dusty heraldry and lines;
Which dissolution sure doth best discern, (10)
Comparing dust with dust, and earth with earth.
These laugh at jet and marble, put for signs,
To sever the good fellowship of dust,
And spoil the meeting: what shall point out them,
When they shall bow and kneel and fall down flat (15)
To kiss those heaps which now they have in trust?
Dear flesh, while I do pray, learn here thy stem
And true descent, that, when thou shalt grow fat
And wanton in thy cravings, thou mayst know
That flesh is but the glass which holds the dust (20)
That measures all our time; which also shall Be crumbled into dust. Mark here below
How tame these ashes are, how free from lust,
That thou mayst fit thyself against thy fall.

(A) suspicious
(B) playful
(c) urgent
(D) meditative
(E) violent

12. Which of the following is the most accurate description of the way death is treated in the poem?
(A) Death is personified as a powerful destructive force.
(B) Death is described in metaphorical terms of marble and color.
(C) Death is addressed as a kindly and comforting presence.
(D) Death is treated as a cold intellectual abstraction
(E) Death is pictured as lean, studious, and severe.
13. The theme of this poem is most precisely stated as the
   (A) vanity of human wishes
   (B) supreme importance of earthly life
   (C) pursuit of excellence
   (D) impermanence or the flesh
   (E) triumph of the body over the soul

14. The lesson which the body most needs to learn is
   (A) pride
   (B) virtue
   (C) humility
   (D) shame
   (E) wantonness
Andrew Marvell (1621-1678)

A Dialogue between the Soul and the Body

O who shall, from this dungeon, raise
A soul enslav'd so many ways?
With bolts of bones, that fetter'd stands
In feet, and manacled in hands;
Here blinded with an eye, and there
Deaf with the drumming of an ear;
A soul hung up, as 'twere, in chains
Of nerves, and arteries, and veins;
Tortur'd, besides each other part,
In a vain head, and double heart.

BODY
O who shall me deliver whole
From bonds of this tyrannic soul?
Which, stretch'd upright, impales me so
That mine own precipice I go;
And warms and moves this needless frame,
(A fever could but do the same)
And, wanting where its spite to try,
Has made me live to let me die.
A body that could never rest,
Since this ill spirit it possesst.

What magic could me thus confine Within another's grief to pine?
Where whatsoever it complain,
I feel, that cannot feel, the pain;
And all my care itself employs;
That to preserve which me destroys;
Constrain'd not only to endure
Diseases, but, what's worse, the cure;
And ready oft the port to gain,
Am shipwreck'd into health again.

But physic yet could never reach
The maladies thou me dost teach;
Whom first the cramp of hope does tear,
And then the palsy shakes of fear;
The pestilence of love does heat,
Or hatred's hidden ulcer eat;
Joy's cheerful madness does perplex,
Or sorrow's other madness vex;
Which knowledge forces me to know,
And memory will not forego.
What but a soul could have the wit
To build me up for sin so fit?
So architects do square and hew
Green trees that in the forest grew.
Andrew Marvell (1621-1678)

A Dialogue between the Soul and the Body

DIRECTIONS: Choose the best answer among those given.

   e. speaking

2. In the poem, which of the following best describes the relationship between the body and soul?
   a. The body controls the soul.
   b. The soul owns and manages the body.
   c. They are separate and independent.
   d. Each is subject to the demands of the other.
   e. In time, they become completely unified.

3. Which of the following devices are dominant in the first stanza?
   a. An extended metaphor of cruel imprisonment
   b. An extended definition of the soul
   c. Names of the parts of the body to represent the whole
   d. Internal rhyme to emphasize the internal nature of the struggle
   e. End-stopped lines to temper the urgency of the message

4. The notation of an eye that can blind and ear that can deafen (lines 5-6) suggests that the
   a. Body is in fact in worse condition than the soul
   b. Soul claims to have senses, but those senses fail
   c. Eye and ear impede the soul’s perception instead of aiding it
   d. Eye and ear try continually to perceive the soul but never do
   e. Fragile eye and ear are stronger than the soul

5. In the context of the first stanza, lines 1-2 express a longing to be
   a. freed from an actual prison
   b. separated from physical life
   c. saved from eternal damnation
   d. cured of a crippling ailment
   e. released from enslavement to vice

6. Which of the following best sums up what is said in lines 13-14?
   a. The body would prefer death to the dictates of the soul.
   b. The soul puts the body in position of always being a danger to itself.
   c. The body becomes a danger to others when it ignored what the soul teaches.
   d. The body is stepping-off place for any attempt to understand the nature of the soul.
   e. The soul offers the body the chance to achieve new heights.

7. What does line 15 suggest about the nature of the soul?
   a. It is the divine element in a person.
   b. It is the source of evil as well as good.
   c. It confuses by introducing conflicting emotions.
   d. It is the animating force in a person.
   e. It makes one conscious of physical sensations.
8. Which of the following best relates the question posed in lines 21-22?
   a. What constrains me to suffer from experiences that are not naturally my own?
   b. What can make me sorrow for the body in its ill state when I have no natural sympathy?
   c. What struggle of good and evil makes me both cause the misfortunes of the body and then regret them?
   d. Why must the body ultimately come to grief and I be saved?
   e. Why must I dwell in another body after my original dwelling place has died?

9. Lines 25-26 are best understood to mean that the
   a. soul can neither care nor feel. And so the body has no reason to try to preserve it
   b. body ignores the soul’s efforts to influence it
   c. soul’s best attempts to exist in unity with the body end by killing the body
   d. body refuses to recognize that it would not live without the soul
   e. soul’s efforts are used by the body for its own maintenance and, consequently, for the ruination of the soul.

10. “Port” (line 29) refers metaphorically to
    a. death
    b. the body
    c. the unity of body and soul
    d. illness
    e. hell

11. Which of the following best describes the effect of the metaphors in lines 31-36?
    a. The likening of emotion to illness suggest that the soul and body are really one
    b. The very number of ailments exaggerates the weakness of the body and the strength of the soul.
    c. The mention of Leaching implies that knowing oneself well is the key to healing the breach between body and soul.
    d. The metaphors stress that the body perceives the emotions physically and, further, that it perceives only their negative effects.
    e. The metaphors indicate that the obsession of the body with its own ailments keeps it from giving expression to the soul.

12. The last four lines, which extend the length of the last stanza, have the effect of
    a. offering a solution to the dilemma of the body and soul
    b. providing an epigrammatic summary of the body’s view of the soul
    c. providing comic relief from the serious conflict in the poem
    d. breaking through the irony of the poem to reveal the whole person, body and soul combined
    e. finally allowing the soul to argue back within a stanza devoted to the view of the body

13. Which of the following most fully expresses the cleverness of the body in its impingement on the soul?
    a. “O who shall, from this Dungeon, raise /A Soul inslav’d so many ways” (lines 1-2)
    b. “And, wanting where its spite to try, / Has made me live to let me die.” (lines 17-18)
    c. “And alt my care its self employs. / That to preserve, which me destroys.” (lines 25-26)
    d. “But Physic yet could never reach / The Maladies thou me dost teach.” (lines 31-32)
    e. “Which Knowledge forces me to know, / And Memory will not forgo.” (lines 39-40)
I Dreaded that First Robin
By Emily Dickinson

I dreaded that first Robin, so
But He is mastered, now
I’m accustomed to Him, grown
He hurts a little, thoug—

I thought if I could only live Till that first Shout got by—
Not all Pianos in the Woods
Had power to mangle me—

I dared not meet the Daffodils—
For fear their Yellow Gown
Would pierce me with a fashion
So foreign to my own—

I wished the Grass would hurry—
So—when ’twas time to see—
He’d be too tall, the tallest one Could stretch—to look at me—

I could not bear the Bees should come,
I wished they’d stay away
In those dim countries where they go,
What word had they, for me?

They’re here, though; not a creature failed—
No Blossom stayed away
In gentle deference to me—
The Queen of Calvary—

Each one salutes me, as he goes
And I, my childish Plumes,
Lift, in bereaved acknowledgment
Of their unthinking Drums—
