

Thank you letter to the participants at the Midwestern Region one day session in Chicago —

Thank you for allowing me the privilege of presenting material to such a great group of teachers. Your openness and welcome was appreciated. I hope you will feel free to contact me if you have any further questions or comments. Always looking for ways to improve what I present to teachers, and certainly glad to clear up any questions you might have on the materials that were presented. I know we “rushed” through some of the materials. Certainly, not how I would present the materials to my students. They need time to absorb and consider the materials at a much slower pace.

It is always difficult to “guess” what teachers really need and/or expect when they attend the College Board one day sessions. I hope I presented materials that you will find useful in your own instruction, and certainly feel free to adapt the materials to fit your student population. Remember, what I have developed over the 50 some years of teaching has always been focused on the needs of the students I had—not the ones I wanted.

Hopefully, as you can see by perusing my website, my students received lots of instruction in poetry, short stories, novels, plays, etc. Please feel free to inquire about how I utilized any of the material on this website.

Just know I would enjoy returning to the Midwestern Region any time to work with such a dedicated group of teachers. My best to you and your students as we move closer to the “test” time.

I have also undated this site with the additional materials I promised you.

Cordially,

Jerry Brown
